

Edinburgh Iranian Festival is being organised by a dedicated team of volunteers.

Sara Kheradmand

Sara is the director of the Edinburgh Iranian Festival, and started planning the first festival in 2008. As the director of the festival she is in close contact with all volunteers and members of the management team. She oversees the planning and implementation of all events. By day, Sara is a building services engineer, with a passion for sustainable design.

Farnaz Mohsenpour

Farnaz joined the EIF team in 2010 and coordinated the Festival's lecture series in 2011. In the 2013 Festival she organised the events in collaboration with the National Museums Scotland (NMS) and also led the lecture series and workshops focused on Iranian history and culture. By day, Farnaz works as a researcher in renewable energy and sustainability.

Mona Vaghefian

Mona joined the EIF team in 2012, when she re-located to Edinburgh. Mona's work for the festival includes leading on all PR and Communications, ranging from media relations to social media. By day, Mona is a political consultant, and has previously worked in the media team at the City of Edinburgh Council.
